NOTICE OF LAND SALE-State of North

whereas, at the March term 1834, of the Superior court of Runcomhe county his honor. Jas. D. McIver, Judge presiding, rendered the following decree of sale, to wit.

"This cause having been compromised by the parties, the defendants agreeing to allow the plaintiffs to take judgment for 5100 and the coats of this action.

"It is therefore ordered, by the consent of all parties, that the plaintiffs recover judgment against the defendants for the sum of one hundred dollars and the costs of this action. It is further ordered that the said judgment shall be lien on the house and lot situated on Bailey street, in the City of Asheville, known as lots Nos. 75, 29 and 31, as set out and described upon the plaintiffs to tat the said debt is secured by a mechanic's lien and a laborer's lien upon the said property for materials and lator furnished by the plaintiffs upon the property of the defendant, Annie L. Carter, and that the same was her necessary and personal expenses in repairing and improving her individual property; it is further ordered, by consent, that the said sum of 5100, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent, per annum from the said sum of 5100, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent, per annum from the said property mentioned in lots Nos. 25, 29 and 31, situated on Bailey street, in the City of Asheville, will be sold for cash to satisfy said judgment and interest aforesaid, and that the clerk of this court be, and he is, hereby appointed a commissioner to make said sale after duly advertising said sale at the court house and in "The Asheville Daly Citizen." a newspaper published in the City of Asheville, for 30 days, and to report the same to the next term of this court; and this cause is retained for further directions.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

-There are 600 churches in Chicago. -In Holland, no newspapers are is sued on Sunday. -In connection with hospital Sunday in London there was recently raised the sum of £35,000. -A check for $66,000 was put on the collection plate recently at the Church of the Transfiguration in New York.

-Rev. Hudson Taylor, of the China Inland mission, estimates that more than 100,000,000 of Chinese are addicted to the use of opium. -The first common schools estab lished by legislation in America were in Massachusetts, 1645; but the first town school was opened at . Hartford, Conn., prior to 1642. -It is said that there are in England about 20,000 women receiving salaries as officers of benevolent organizations, and 500,000 more who give themselves continuously to such work. -At the age of seventy-three year Bishop William Taylor is as zealous as ever in the work of evangelizing Africs, though many of his best men have died or been compeled to return.

-Less than fifty years ago China had only 6 native converts; now there are nearly 60,000. It has been hopefully estimated that if a like increase continues another half century will see 200, 000,000 Christians in China.

-John Fiske, who has recently com-pleted a school history of the United States, had conferred upon him at Harvard's last commencement the degree of LL.D. This is a worthy tribute to America's greatest historian.

- The oldest church in the United States is the church of San Miguel, at Santa Fe, N. M. It was erected seventyseven years before the landing of the pilgrims on Plymouth Rock, twenty years before the founding of St. Augustine, Fla., and fifty-three years after the landing of Columbus.

-M. Mirman, deputy for the Marne, is in a curious fix. By French law, teachers are exempt from military service on agreeing to follow their proession for ten years. M. AN OLD SUPERSTITION.

Prosecution of a Woman for Possessing Supernatural Powers.

Here is an instance of superstition in England as late as 1668. It is in a suit brought against Susan Haynes for pos sessing supernatural powers:

Anna Sayce deposes "that she knowes the articulate Susan Haynes, now the wife of William Waters, and saith that she is a woman of very little creditt or reputacion amongst her neighbours; and doth soe much abuse her neighbours, and disturbe their quiet, that hey will scarce suffer her to come near them: that she is a great swearer, and woman; and this deponent hath heard one Margery Hodges say that she haveing a Cow very sick, did send for the aforesaid Susan Haynes, and forced her to say 'God bless the Cow!' and hereupon the said Cow recovered and well within some few howers after.

"And in case any person or beast do fall sick on a suddaine, who is known to the said Susan's mother, it is usuall to send for her and to force her to say 'God bless such person or beast;' and NOTICE OF LAND BALE COUNTY of Buncombe; in the Superior court, term 1831. SAMOAN FUNERALS.

The Profuse Ceremonials Observed When Death Occurs.

In Samon it is impossible for a chief to ie in peace and quiet. As soon as he is known to be near death, the people for miles around hasten to pay him a farewell visit. On one such occasion according to a writer in Outing, the alned, devoured seven hundred pigs.

When death finally occurs, the ives and friends come with their offer ings of fine mats. Singly, or in small roups, they present the tokens of their orrow to some old woman, deputed to receive them. The mats are spread over the corpse, until in some in-stances a hundred or more are piled up, entirely hiding the body from sight They excite more attention than the dead chief, and after the burial are hung up for inspection. Every mat has a name and history, and though the outsider could not easily distinguish one from another, yet the elderly people recognize them at first sight, and relate bits of history bout each, as it is exposed to view.

After the funeral is over, within lay or two, there is a grand meeting for a division of the mats. Every one who brought a mat expects to take away one-a better one. All hands are seated in a circle, and the mats are piled up in the center.

The head of the family, who is always a high chief, opens a folded mat. All look at it carefully, discuss its merits and value, mention its various owners at different times and the great oceasions at which it has figured, and the name of the donor on the present oc

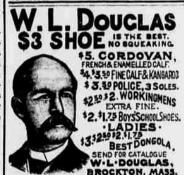

Then the head of the family calls the name of some person who is in the circle, to intimate that the mat is given to him, or her, as the case may be. The recipient takes the mat, lifts it, and resses it to the top of the head, at the same time expressing audible thanks. The entire heap of mats is parcelled out in the same manner.

One of England's Oldest Trees. One of the oldest trees standing is England is the "Tortworth" chestnut. which, as far back as the reign of Stephen, in 1135, was so remarkable for its size and antiquity that it was recog nized as the terminal boundary of the nanor of Tortworth in Gloucestershire The wondrously old tree was cited by Dr. Ducard in his controversy with Daines Barrington as a convincing proof of the chestnut being indigenou to Great Britain. It is supposed to have attained its maturity in the reign of Egbert. In 1766 the Tortworth chest nut was fifty feet in circumference and fifty-two feet high, and many more centuries of tranquil existence wer predicted for it.

Wonders of Prehistoric Art.

In one of the oldest ruins of the state of Oaxaca, Mexico, a number of very rare and interesting images, found in metal, have been uncovered. mages represent people of Oriental ap pearance and dress, as well as priests in their robes of sacrifice. They bear hieroglyphics of unknown characters and are elaborately wrought, with fine art lines shown in every curve. The images found thus far are of gold, either wholly or in part, and are coated with some unknown enamel, which has preserved them from all harm in the many years they have been buried in the soll.

-In all policies of life insurance these, among a host of other questions, occur: "Age of father, if living? Age of mother, if living?" A man in the country filled up his father's age, "if living," one hundred and twelve years and his mother's one hundred and two. The agent was amazed at this, and ancied he had secured an excellent came of a very long-lived family. "Oh, you see, sir," replied he, "my parents died many years ago, but 'if living' would be aged as there put down."-

ASHEVILLE, N. C.

We came to Asheville to inaugurate a system of merchandise based on dollars, and we not only frankly said so, but have kept the faith to the best of our ability We did not expect all to like goods, and the result has far surpassed anything had thought of. We are sell ing goods to make money and have not attempted to delude any body with the dreds of things less than job bers sell them, and we ex-it and in this have not been disappointed. We expected our customers to appreciate t, and to sell stacks of cry that we were giving away goods for we are not. We sell goods cheap-hunpect to keep that up. We believe in selling goods cheap, not what we can get or all we can get, as is the plan of some, but as low as we can all the time. It covers all our mercantile faith. If we can save you money you will bry of us, it is to your is terest to do it. The cry comes up that we damage business cutting prices. but we steadily move on, knowing no law but that of the best values for the least money, drawing the line between cash and credit, let would We have made some splend:d purchases in these distinct lines of goods that we will throw out to our customers just as soon as they get here from the auction rooms in New York.
